TELLS OF THE PLOT.

Harry Orchard, Accused of Assassinating Ex-Gov. Steunen. berg, Makes a Confession.

MANY DETAILS WERE VERIFIED.

He Was Also Selected to Kill One of the Justices of the Supreme Court of Colorado,

Boise, Ida., Feb. 20.-Herry Orchard, under arrest for complicity in the plot to assassinate Ex-Gov. Steunenberg, of Idaho, it is said, has made a confesassassination from its incention. It gives the names of other men alleged to be implicated. Since the confes sion was secured more than two weeks ago the detectives have verified many of the details.

One of the statements in this con fession is that Orchard was selected to assassinate one of the justices of the supreme court of Colorado a year ago. He says he buried a bomb at the judge's gate, but when he pulled the wave up the attempt. Detective James McParland, of Denver, it is claimed, since dug up the bomb.

In his alleged confession Orchard says he was alone in the actual exe- 70 barrels per day-while the others cution of the Caldwell plot; that he had first planned to shoot Stennenberg with buckshot and went to the house on Christmas eve for that purpose intending to shoot through the window, but abandoned the plan and tid a number of cartridges under the sidewalk. GIFTED POLISH ACTRESS.

MADAME BERTHA KALICH IS WINNING FAME IN ENGLISH-SPEAKING PARTS.

With so much interest focused on happenings in Russia, it would be strange indeed if we did not receive a taste of Russian drama. The leading cities of the country are now centering their attention upon the Russian play "Monna Vanna" the title role of which is being essayed by Madame Bertha Kalich, a Polish actress who won fame in the Yiddish theatres on the Bowery la New York City.

Madame Kalich may not be considered a beautiful woman but through the naturalness of her acting she touches every spark of humanity that glows in the human breast. Six years ago she did not know a word of English, yet her mastery at the present time of one of iliar with five other languages-German, Polish, Russian, French and Yidperformances were disappointing but at the end of a fortnight she made a Bertha Kalich's appearance in Chicago was greeted with an outburst of enthusiasm which continued through out the many weeks of her performance there. Such a well-known critic as W. H. Even the little weasel, scores of which daily leave their tiny tracks in the snow on the outskirts of the towns are worth $1 each for their pelts. They were valueless three years ago, and two years ago were worth 10 cents each. For a time last winter the pelts brought 50 cents each. The weasel also belongs to the homologue of the American sable together with the marten, mink, fisher and otter. The American sable really is the marten, according to some authorities. It is commonly called the pine marten, and at first glance the only distinguishing feature between it and the mink is a spot of beautiful orange color on its throat, just under the chin.

A grizzly bear skin is worth $40, if in the best condition, but of course grizzly bears are unknown in the Lake Region. Many black bears are trapped and shot, however, by settlers, Indians and trappers.

Three promotions will bring him to the rank of captain with $2,500 salary per year and an increase of ten per cent. for each five years' service.

A Strenuous Life.

The cadets at the training school on Chesapeake Bay lead a strenuous existence. They "turn out" at 6:30 o'clock in the morning and after half an hour allowed for dressing, report for drill which continues for forty-five minutes ere the call for breakfast is given. BALDWIN'S NEW AIRSHIP.

Believed by Experts to Surpass any Flying Machine Yet Constructed.

Captain Thomas Baldwin believes e has found a way to navigate the air with fair success. Captain Baldwin be it known, is America's foremost Social Events a Feature of This Governmental School.—Daily Reprofession of sailing to the clouds onger and more continuously than any other citizen of the republic. He began ballooning in the ordinary way nearly a quarter of a century ago. Then he invented the modern type of parachute and in his inventing and experimenting, went from one thing to another until he hit upon the dirigible balloon type of airship.

In the past half decade Captain
Baldwin, who makes his home in Los Angeles, California, has built five different sky craft, all on this general pattern, but each different in many respects from its predecessor. He hopes to improve on even the new airship which has recently been completed, but the fact remains that this latest flying machine is so far superior to everything that has gone before it that it is well worthy of notice.

In the new airship the gas bag or balloon which lifts it has a capacity of 16,000 cubic feet of gas or nearly twice as much as the bag of the one which Captain Baldwin exhibited at the St. Louis Exposition. It is made of Japan silk, oiled inside and out. From this bag there is suspended by means of a net of cotton seine twine a framework which contains the propelling and steering apparatus of the airship and which is known as the "keel." In Captain Baldwin's earlier inventions this was built of steel tub-ing and each frame cost $700, but in the new airship the keel is of Oregon spruce, the lightest and strongest wood in existence.

A Powerful Little Engine.

The engine which furnishes power for driving the baloon is located about midway on the keel. It consists of a gasoline motor very similar to those in use on motor-cycles. The motor weighs about 75 pounds, is capable of 3,000 revolutions per minute, and able to develop 7½ horsepower, but it is seldom if ever that so much energy is required even when the aerial flyer is facing a heavy wind.

Attached to the keel at the forward end of the airship is the propeller, which is eleven feet in diameter and has two 18 inch blades of painted canvas. These blades whirl around at the rate of two hundred times per minute, but it will be observed that this propeller is at the forward end of the ship instead of at the stern, where it might naturally be looked for, and this gives the keynote to one of Captain Baldwin's most important inventions, namely, the scheme of having the rap idly revolving propeller pull the ship through the air instead of pushing it as a ship is pushed through the water.

Nearly fifty feet from the propeller at the other end of the keel is the rud-der by which the steering is accomplished. This rudder is about six by eight feet in size and consists of there are periods of study and recita-tion, then half an hour for recreation frame. Attached to the framework of the keel is also a tank which is capable of holding two gallons of gaso-line. The navigator of the new Baldwin airship has nothing in the way of a -platform on which to stand, but must balance himself on the skeleton framework of the keel, bracing himself by means of the net which suspends the keel from the gas bag.

Baldwin's new airship cost him more than $1.800 and by reason of the ga required to inflate it as well as other expenses, each ascension costs in the neighborhood of $250. THE NATION'S FORESTS.

BRILLIANT ADDRESS AT ANNUAL CONVENTION AMERICAN FOR-ESTRY ASSOCIATION.

Secretary Wilson Sounds Warning Note on Forest Destruction—Million Acres Should Be Tree-planted-Everett Hale in Vigorous S cent

Secretary Wilson has more than once manifested a deep interest in the question of American Forestry. Mr. Wilson has, in fact, for some years been elected and re-elected President of the American Forestry Association, a pow-erful organization, composed of publicpirited men throughout the country, which has probably done more than any other one influence to awaken national interest in the enormous destruction of the forests and the neces sity for their business-like managemen and preservation, even to the reforest ation of denuded areas and the plant-ing of trees upon barren prairie lands.

That the movement in the United States is coming to be considered an important one is to some extent evidenced by the increased recognition of the subject by Congress, which is also due largely to Secretary Wilson's en-thusiasm. When Mr. Wilson was ap-pointed Secretary of Agriculture by President McKinley, his forestry di-vision consisted of one forester, an assistant forester and five clerks and with an annual appropriation from

REV. EDWARD EVERETT HALE.

Congress for forestry of $30,000. Since then forestry division has been advanced into a separate bureau of the Department of Agriculture, employing over 500 men and having an annual appropriation from Congress of upwards of one-half a million dollars. Fully a million acres of forest lands in the eastern part of the United States have been turned over to the Bureau of Forestry for management on a practical and scientific basis which will enable the cutting of the forest for lumber and at the same time insuring succeeding "crops" of timber, while over 100,000,000 of the acres of goverment Forest reserves in the west have also been turned over to the Bureau of Forestry for administration. It is also been turned over to the Bureau the necessary clerical work is freely of Forestry for administration. It is donated. The personal sacrifices that probable that at least another 50,000, 000 acres of public timber land will be placed in federal reserves.

Secretary Wilson in his opening adiress at the recent annual meeting of the American Forestry Association in Washington, uttered a clear note of warning against the whole-sale reducof the woodland area in the country.

'No nation on earth is as successful in the work of destroying its forests as the United States." he declared. "The indiscriminate mutilation of the forests must be stopped; the matter has be-come one of national interest which can not much longer be ignored by the people or by our legislators." After advocating the broadest kind of protective forest policy, he touched on the subject of reforesting certain He thought that every day should be an arbor day, that every year should mark a notable advance in the effort to recover lost ground.

Plant A Million Acres.

"We should plant," he said, "not 10, 000 acres nor stop at 100,000 acres, oped the fact that the should plant 1,000,000 acres in trees, and this would be, viewed from of the cards received. several points, the very best investment which the United States ever made. It which the United States ever made. It pretty that which the United States ever made. It pretty that would be a paying, money investment a year ago," said Mrs. Alden. "It had to the government, and it would be a tremendous help to our agriculture, it so much that I thought at once of an old uncle who would appreciate it while creasing with great rapidity, while every one knows the very beneficial effect that has resulted from the planting of wind-breaks in the prairie states."

Another address before the Associa tion by the venerable Edward Everett Hale, now the Chaplain of the United States Senate, constituted a clean-cut statement of the great necessity of prompt action to protect the forests. Dr. Hale is around eighty years or age; he remembers when the saw and the ax scarce touched the giant monarchs in Ohio Valley, when the forests of northern Michigan and Minnesota were unbroken wildernesses, and when those of the far northwest, in that marvelous country "where rolls the Oregon," were a terra incognita. He has seen whole states denuded of their valuable timber and burned over by devastating fires due to reckless and wasteful methods, he has seen the axman and the mill-man move westward, swiftly and surely mowing down everything in his course until there is practically no sec. tion he has left uninvaded. At the present rate of timber cutting in the United States, 40 years from to-day there will be not an acre left of mer-

Common Sense Forestry.

"What are we going to do?" asked Dr. Hale in his deep voice. "We must use both common sense and sentiment in dealing with the forest question. It is a very great question. The in-dividuals interested in American for-estry, even though they be millionaires or multi-millionaires, can not accom-plish anything definite and lasting un-less the states and the general greyom. less the states and the general govern-ment can be awakened to the necessity of giving the cause large and substantial assistance which it merits. Common sense, in forestry, means that the forestry question should be put upon a business basis. All the governments of Europe rely largely upon their forest lands for revenue. The Society was incorporated under the laws of New York in 1900 and to-day there are 400,000 enrolled mem-

The Society is the outgrowth of a thought expressed by Mrs. Cynthia Westover Alden in the office of the New York Recorder several years ago during the holiday season. Mrs. Alden was the recipient of a number of cards from her co-workers on the paper as well as outside friends. After enjoying the cards, she protested that she would have been better pleased if the donors had not written their names on them. This statement horrified her audience and with one accord every one exclaimed:

"What! You wouldn't give our presents away, would you?"

"Why not?" was the What do you do with yours?"

A laughing investigation soon developed the fact that the waste basket thought, did enjoy it, and so much so that he immediately recalled an old friend to whom it would appeal with special force. So he copied the poem and sent the card on. This recipient found the card so helpful that she, too, felt called upon to pass it on and before the seven days' heliday was over the card had carried its Christ-mas message to six different persons. Of course this is exceptional, but is still an example of the infinite possibilities of a gift accepted in the true spirit and then passed on, giving each one the double delight of receiving and giving."

The cards which had afforded the little sermon were spread out and were Inspired with this idea of sending out remembrances that might be multiplied four-foid a new set of cards was given to Mrs. Alden by the Recorder's staff and these cards were a once sent out. The thanks received for them were so pretty that an item was made of them in the New York Recorder. This caused further corre spondence and resulted in a club for the exchange of friendly greetings. The name of "Chat" was at first chosen for the column, but in time the membership grew so large that the mo to "Good Cheer" was adopted and in 1896 the name of the society was changed to the "Sunshine" Society, and its active members were to include all who were desirons of life by word, thought or deed. who were desirons of brightening

The growth of the Society has been almost phenomenal. From the parent society branches have sprung up until State in the Union is represent ed with regularly enrolled presidents and organizers.

The Dues.

One of the unique features of the Society is the payment of membership fees which consists merely of some kind act which will bring "sunshine" to some one. It may be only an exchange of books, pictures or flowers, or it may bring more material benefit. newspapers must be given credit in a large degree for the growth of the Society. Originating in a newspaper office it has everywhere received the endorsement of the press until to-day over 200 papers are regularly carrying Sunshine departments.

The Society has a publication of its own called the Sunshine Builetin, of which Mrs. Alden, the founder and president-general, is editor.

Features of Sunshine Work.

Each State division of the Sunshine Society endeavors to have some established feature besides the individual sunshine each member strives to scatter. This work takes the form of day nurseries, homes for crippled children and aged ones, maintaining beds in hospital wards, fresh air and outing bottages, Sunshine libraries, lunch pottages, Sunshine libraries, lui rooms for working girls, etc., etc.

Ingenious Make-Ups and Cruel Devi-ces Practiced-Arrest Made and the Principals Seat to Prison.—Famous Orient Beggar.

As old as is civilization, so old is the history of the beggar kingdom, for wherever have been found any coliection of men, the beggars there played their business despite indifference and the scorn of the majority, yet aiways reaping their harvest from the philanthropic. The nearer one draws to the warmer countries more and more numerous one finds the professional beggar. Egypt, India and Italy are the gar. Egypt, India and Italy are the worst examples. In countries which boast of their ligher civilization beggary flourlshes not through want or privation, but through a cass of people who make beggary their profession and who have made a fine art of the methods of reaching the soft hearted. And beggars of this class do not seem to stop at criminality.

A recent case was noted in press dispatches of unusual brutality practiced by a beggar upon three children in Austria who had been kidnapped from their parents. The children told a terribic tale of suffering at the hands of the beggar who had broken their legs in two places and then twisted the limbs out of hape, so that in knitting together the bones would not set straight. The man sent the children out to beg for him and their pitiful condition made compassionate people give large sums because of their ful condition made compassionate peo-ple give large sums because of their apparent mlsery.

Fake Deformities.

While a number of the beggars found in large wies are really deformed—blind, lame, maimed, crippled, or deaf and dumb, yet it is a known fact to the police authorities that there are establishments where idle, worthless and lazy persons are readily manufactured into objects of charity. The theme of one of the best of the Sherlock Holmes' stories is a wonderfully "made-up" beggar who fools the police

A Close Corporation Suit.

A Close Corporation Suit.

Following the example of large corporations which form combines for mutual protection and profit, there was recently established in New York a "beggar trust" through the efforts of a one-legged youth who had left a comfortable home to engage deliberately in begging. His remarkable insight into business methods would probably have reaped him a greater reward than was derived through beggary. Organizing a community of interest among the mendieants of Park Row, he pieked out favorable points Row, he picked out favorable points throughout the city to which were assigned certain men. A lame youth would be placed at one point, a blind one there and a badly-scalded mendicant at another. That these beggars might not be molested in their work, eyes is the width of one eye.

By Telephone.

"This is the residence of J. Pierpont Morgan. The house is on fire. Send an engine at once. This is Herbert L. Satterlee, Mr. Morgan's son-in-law, talking."

There was unusual excitement at fire headquarters recently when the tele-phone rang and the foregoing words came over the wire.

The engine was sent, and no team ever made a quicker run. When the firemen arrived at 219 Madison avenue, the home of the multi-millionaire, they found Mr. Satterlee in the doorway. The only sign of fire was a slender sheet of flame shooting out of the chimney.

"For heaven's sake, do not use any water," Mr. Satterlee begged. "You will ruin irreplaceable paintings if you do. The fire is in the chimney. But please be quick."

The firemen yielded to Mr. Satterlee's request, and used hand grenades instead of the hose. They found Policeman Daniel Kelleher on the roof. He had almost extinguished the fire by throwing salt down the chimney. The fire caused no damage.

The idea of the establishment is said to have originated with General Winfield Scott, after whom the main building of the Home is named, and of whom there is a fine bronze statue in the grounds. During the occupation of Mexico General Scott exacted a sum of money from that country. The money was paid to him, and he asked Congress that it be set aside for the establishment at Washington of a home for disabled enlisted men of the regular navy and army. This was done. The Home is maintained by exacting from every enlisted man and officer 12 1-2 cents from each months' pay. Fines from court martial and money due deserters is turned into this fund. The story runs that a beautiful young woman, daughter of rich parents, fell in love with a poor and struggling artist. The attraction was mutual, but her family aspired to a wealthy alliance. Washington society. The woman's love, however, still went out to the poor artist and her husband, who had been informed of the peculiar state of affairs, could do nothing to win his wife's affection. All the gifts that money could buy were showered upon her, but to no purpose.

To his horror, one day several months after their marriage he found his wife lying dead in a room in their house, the poor girl having died of a broken heart. Although deeply atached to his wife, he was struck with admiration by her devotion to his rival, and when she was buried in the family lot in Rock Creek Cemetery, he com-missioned St. Gaudens, the scupitor, to make a bronze statue of heroic size depicting her as she was found, dead and covered with her bathrobe.

The figure of the woman is seated, with the bathrobe drawn about her and the work is one of great strength The bronze is surrounded by marbie beautifully carved. In front of it is a long marble seat, where one may admire the work of art. No name marks the spot, but at each corner of the lot is a small marble block, about six inches square, with the letter "A" carved in the top. The entire lot is surrounded by a dense growth of pine trees, so that one not familiar with the spot looks in vain for the figure.

Character of England's King.

The character of King Edward, white Prince of Wales, appears to have been greatly misunderstood. Many scandals were laid at his door; many journalists and prominent writers found themselves unable to resist temptation of making him the theme of extravagant stories without foundation, or at best based only upon

It costs no more to feed and care for a broad breasted Plymouth Rock, standard varieties than it does for the common scrub, and with the low price at which good eggs, or practically pure bred cockerels can be had, it is the easiest thing Imaginable to have, after shade under that of wheat or cotton, amounting to over half a billion dollars. Since the perfection of the incubator, the importance of the industry has been greatly augmented. By the same hour every evening, need not fear the task of running an incubator; the use of this splendid device it is now but unless one is willing to attend to comparatively a set to help in large.

Standard Kinds of Chickens.

A fascinating little bulletin has been issued by the Department of Agricul-ture (farmers' bulletin No. 51) which is replete with illustrations of the principal standard varieties of chickens, the reading of which by any chicken grower, however small, should certainly stimulate a New Year resolution to make the flock a real money earner. This bulletin, while it will prove, probably, a mere stimulant for mo e extensive literature on the subject, can be obtained without cost from Sena-tors and Members of Congress, or the Secretary of Agriculture, and the proof of its popularity is apparent in the seven or eight editions which it has been neessary to publish to supply the demand throughout the country.

Caponizing Fowls.

One of the most attractive features of poultry raising is the production of capons. This is a story all by itself. It is an experiment which one can enter into and with a very slight expenditure for a set of instruments, can follow it to any degree desired. It requires some judgment and a little attention, but caponizing is not difficult: it is one of those things which, while it looks, in the beginning, to be a hard proposition, gradually comes to you all of itself, so that the first thing you know you become almost an expert, and the reward is very considerable. Capons always sell readily and at a good advance in price. The birds become very docile and easily handled

After being tested they are kept in the jars for seven days, being changed as before. This makes a total of eleven days in the jars. Then they are taken in a bamboo basket and related out on a mat on the platform above the jars. Here they remain until hatched. The only heat they receive is from the room, except during cold weather they are covered with a heavy quilt. After they are hatched the chicks are put in shellow heatter for a short time to

After testing, it is stated that 90 per cent. of those remaining will hatch.
This style of incubator probably would not suit American requirements, but the idea of utilizing the heat of the room during the later stages of incuba-tion is very valuable, as it economizes both heat and space.

POULTRY FEEDING.

An Important Phase of the Chicken Growing Industry.

Poultry feeding is sometimes a most serious problem to those who desire to make this line a specialty. Experi-ence has shown that there are certain special lines of agricultural operations with which poultry raising may advantageously be connected. In dairying there is usually a large quantity of skim milk or butter-milk which may be utilized to furnish a considerable part of the poultry ration. However, able part of the poultry ration. Upon the fruit farm fowls are also of advantage. They keep down insect pests and they may have a free range a greater part of the season without the possibility of doing any damage. Plum growers have found poultry especially and are always money makers. ORIENTAL INCUBATORS.

Peculiar Facility of Chinese for Artificial Jatching. If we are to look . the beginning of any particular industry, we are usually told that we might find that this particular work was first carried on in China. This applies as well to the artificial hatching of eggs. Throughout China the hatching of eggs by heat is a very larve and two results. Throughout China the hatching of eggs by heat is a very large and important industry and has been practiced since very ancient times. The Orlental who desires to hatch eggs by artificial heat first constructs a building of sundried brick, plastered on the outside with mud. Completely fill g one side and the other also, except for door space and sufficient room for a man to test the eggs, are round, barrel-like mud brick walls with earthen fars set into them. This jar is very jars set into them. This jar is very deep, and comes within six or eight inches of the ground. The conical bottom is filled with ashes to the depth of eight or nine inches, to keep the pemperature more uniform and to woid sudden changes of temperature when doors are opened and there is a strong wind. On the top of the ashes is thrown a bit of old mat or similar material to keep the baskets of eggs is thrown a bit of old mat or similar material to keep the baskets of eggs clean and to prevent raising a dust when they are taken out. For holding the eggs a basket is used that leaves a space of about an inch between it and the inner wall of the jar. Round and full, these baskets each hold from 1200 to 1350 eggs. After the eggs are put into the basket a slow smoklering fire, made with very fine charcoal, is started. After a day the eggs are taken out, a handful at a time, and put into a similar basket. This is done from two to four times each day according to the temperature. The Chinese use no thermometer to test the degree of heat attained in the incubator, the eggs being simply touched to the eyeball. After being in the incubator for four days the eggs are tested to see if they contain a living gram, by holding them up to the light and looking through them. Eggs containing no

Dried clover, roots, tubers, etc., should be saved for them during the winter. These should be steamed and fed with the mash or cabbages, and beets may be fed raw. A catch crop of buckwheat or oats and peas will furnish much food at little expense. Fran. meat, meal, wheat screenings and oats purchased for poultry will bring good returns in eggs and will also : dd materially to the fertilizer supply.
